SWINE FLU UPDATE

Connecticut public schools, all 1,100 of them along with an uncertain number of private secondary education schools, have received swine flu preparedness warnings from the state health department.

New York state reported an outbreak of 40 cases in a New York city school.

Over 150 people have died in Mexico where this strain of flu has taken on a deadly foothold in the western hemisphere. There is no vaccine available for this latest outbreak which is coming at an unusual time in early spring. Tamiflu has limited preventative efficacy.

The only preventative measures are to repeatedly wash hands and avoid physical contact with others.

Infrared detectors are being used to screen possibly-infected victims passing through Hong Kong International Airport who will show a higher than usual body heat index.

The U.S. has a travel advisory warning of travel to and from Mexico which has the highest cross-border travel in the world along the U.S. border.

Outbreaks have been also reported in California, Texas, Kansas and Ohio.

Hartford Hospital's Pandemic Influenza Plan is in effect.

Medicated masks have limited avoidance capabilities.
